

Grayshurst clawed there way back and with 30 seconds left in the 6th chukka drew level at 11 goals each. The final whistle signalled that the Vivari Cup was going to be won by a golden goal. Apes Hill's Tom Morley won the throw in and while his team mates cleared the path, he flew up field and sealed the win.

It was a memorable day for everyone involved with Sir Charles William's Apes Hill Club Barbados team, completed by the fact that Her Majesty The Queen presented the Trophy and prizes to the all-English team of Luke and Mark Tomlinson, Tom Morley and Ed Hitchman.

That was the just the start of a memorable week. Back at the Beaufort Polo Club in Gloucestershire, preparation was in full swing for The Williams De Broe Test match in which Apes Hill had sponsored the English Ladies team that would take on a 'Ladies of the Rest of the World'. The English ladies dominated the game with Barbados regulars, Nina Clarkin, Tamara Vestey, Emma Tomlinson and Lucy Taylor running out 6 ½ to 1 winners.

The hat trick of trophies was complete when an Apes Hill Club Barbados team including Princes' William and Harry, Tom Morley and Ollie Williams, grandson of Sir Charles, came from behind to beat Stobart by 5 goals to 3 in a charity match that raised £50,000.

Prince William scored two goals before he and his brother Prince Harry received presented prizes to the schools that had been taking part in the Countryside Foundation for Education programme.
